New Rule Bars Liquor Salesmen's Claims for Entertainment Costs

SACRAMENTO — The alcoholic beverage industry in California—already somewhat shook up because of an extensive state investigation of alleged illegal importation of liquor, non-payment of taxes, and giving free goods and secret rebates—has been dealt still another blow.

The department announced it would look with disfavor on entertainment expenses except those set forth in a new policy statement.

The department's entry into the area of entertainment expenses is in connection with state laws which prohibit the giving of goods or other things of consideration which, in effect, would amount to illegal discounts.

A SPOKESMAN for the department said the entertainment policy statement, recently sent to members of the industry, was "pretty much a restatement of past policy, with perhaps a little tightening up." He said excesses in entertainment were considered "some form of commercial bribery."

The policy statement said entertainment would be limited to one account at a time—that is a wholesaler could entertain only one retailer at a time, or a distiller could entertain only one wholesaler. It also specified that the person entertained had to be authorized and legally qualified to engage in sales or purchase transactions.

The statement had cast some doubts on the legality of a distiller or wholesaler setting up a hospitality room at an industry convention. However, the department spokesman said a convention was considered to be a "very special circumstance" and the policy would not prevent such hospitality rooms.

OTHERS questioned whether the limit of entertainment to one account at a time would prevent lunches given for retailers by wholesalers or by distillers for wholesalers.

"If there's a mass meeting to introduce a new product, I don't think the department would question it," the department spokesman said. "However, if it is just a routine way to put on a feed, with plenty of free booze, to take care of steady customers, the department would take a hard look at it."

The policy statement, issued by Edward J. Kirby, ABC director, is the first such director to be issued.

WOMEN OFTEN HAVE BLADDER IRRITATION

Common Kidney or Bladder Irritations affect twice as many women as men, often causing tenderness and nervousness from frequent, burning, itching urination. Fortunately, you may lose sleep and have headaches, backaches and feel older, tired, depressed. In such cases, CYSTEX usually brings relaxing comfort by curbing germs in acid urine, and easing pain. by the department in recent years. Kirby has been concentrating an investigation on internal trade matters with the industry.

THUS FAR, accusations have been filed against a major brewery and a southern California beer wholesaler, charging giving of secret rebates. In the San Francisco bay area, a major liquor wholesaler and a winery have been charged with giving secret discounts and free goods.

The entertainment statement was as follows: "The department will look with disfavor on entertainment expenses except those expenses which are reasonable when considered in the light of all circumstances. This is in recognition of long-established trade practices. The entertainment expense to be considered reasonable must be confined to one account at a time and must be between licensees who are authorized and legally qualified to engage in sales transactions.

"IN EACH instance in which entertainment occurs, the executive, supervisor or salesman of the company furnishing the entertainment must be present with the recipient. The locals of the entertainment must be reasonably within the trade area of the licensee who is being entertained.
